The Markets

Last week offered some lessons in career management, economics, and investor impulse, among other things. Derek Jeter, the well-loved Yankees shortstop, finished the final home game of his career by smacking a game-winning hit. Throughout his last season, ticket prices for Yankees games soared on the secondary market with $16 bleacher seats selling for more than $200. By the end of the season, ticket vendors were asking as much as $11,000 a seat.

On the other coast, Bill Gross, renowned bond guru, did not retire. Gross left the firm he helped found for a smaller money manager. Shares of stock in his new company rose about 43 percent as investors anticipated the potential inflow of new assets. They also anticipated an outflow of assets from his old firm, according to Barron's, which caused yields on Treasuries and corporate bonds to move higher on Friday, pushing prices south.

Be ready for that unexpected early retirement: 8 tips

That retirement you're looking forward to in five years: Be prepared for it sooner than you expect. Numerous surveys have shown that people think that they are going to retire later than it happens. The two big reasons: health issues and losing your job.

According to the Employee Benefit Research Institute (EBRI), 47% of American retirees in a 2013 survey retired before they planned, mostly because of health or disability. Unplanned or unexpected early retirement can create havoc with your retirement plans. Some who had to retire early weren't quite ready financially: Those five or 10 additional years of saving for retirement were no longer possible. Some may have had to take Social Security earlier than expected. And, as we all know, the earlier you take Social Security, the lower your monthly check.

Coronado Hospital Foundation's 4th Annual Golf Tournament

The Gensler Group was honored to once again be part of the Coronado Hospital Foundation's 4th Annual Golf Tournament on Thursday, September 18 at Sea 'n Air Golf Course.

Dan Gensler and Jadi Christiansen-Faul

The day was fun for all and a tremendous success for Coronado Hospital Foundation. The tournament netted

$127,000 compared to last year's net of $79,000. The City of Coronado will match this year's funds two-for-one; tripling their proceeds to $381,000 to benefit Sharp Coronado Hospital. "The tournament would never have been as successful without Dr. Mark Tamsen's leadership, the Golf Committee, his diligent team of volunteers, and the Foundation staff, says Gensler, CHF Board Chair."

Coronado Hospital Foundation supports the programs, services and equipment needs of Sharp Coronado Hospital. Since its beginnings in 1978, Coronado Hospital Foundation has been dedicated to enhancing the health of the community by supporting solutions to Coronado's unique health care needs. Proceeds from this year's golf tournament will fund two cutting edge technologies. These technologies will enhance the orthopedic and diagnostic capabilities of Sharp Coronado Hospital.

Next year's tournament will be held September 17, 2015 at Sea 'n Air Golf Course. For more information about next year's tournament, please contact Sandy Gross, Tournament Coordinator at (619) 522-3703 or sandy.gross@sharp.com.
